

Determiners

A determiner is a word that goes in front of a noun and its adjectives. It gives us more information about a noun and helps us to identify how much or how many of them there are. Determiners include a, an, the, enough, my, her, some, three, this and those.

- 1) Circle the determiners in the sentences below. Take care as some sentences have more than one determiner.

Are you going to the party tomorrow?

I prefer this chocolate cake to that carrot and walnut cake.

There aren't any skate parks in this town.

Every child was given a packed lunch.

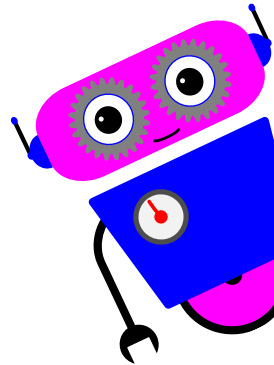

We put two bowls of water out for the cats.

These shells are beautiful but those shells are not.

There were one thousand people at the outdoor concert.

- 2) Tick the sentences that use determiners correctly.

Pass me them oranges.
Some people exercise every day.
A ostrich is a large, flightless bird.
Much parcels have arrived in the post today.
There won't be any rain this weekend.

- 3) Choose a suitable determiner to complete each of the sentences below.

I will bake _____ muffins for the party.

We saw _____ lion and _____ lion cubs at _____ zoo.

Will you buy _____ walking boots or _____ trainers?

_____ adult was given _____ form to complete.

_____ days later, _____ travellers arrived at _____ destination.

_____ teacher claimed _____ class were the best.

